Coach and Eleventy, Fashion Outlet Landquart

Kill Two Birds with One Stone

With the expansion of the Landquart Fashion Outlet in April/May 2026, no fewer than eight new brands moved into the center. Out of these, two entrusted teamtischer with the construction of their stores: "Coach"—the modern American fashion brand with a tradition rooted in quality and craftsmanship—and "Eleventy"—a brand founded in 2007 by Marco Baldassari and Paolo Zuntini, embodying the spirit of smart luxury and modern Milanese style.

Both shops were completed by teamtischer in less than two months. A short-notice contract award, an equally brief construction window, and some missing planning details at the start proved to be genuine challenges. The project became even more demanding due to tight delivery deadlines, for example for the air curtains. The resulting, true "rolling" planning process required additional staff or even the spontaneous stepping in of another trade partner towards the final stages. We proved it: two birds, one stone – no problem for us.

Miramira, St. Gallen

Look at That!

Miramira (Spanish for “look, look”) was founded in Madrid in 2022 with the aim of offering affordable yet durable and trendy jewelry. The collections consist of robust, hypoallergenic, 14-karat gold-plated stainless steel. Distribution takes place online as well as via a franchise system with shops in prime locations and stores in major shopping centers. Today, the network spans more than 25 countries worldwide, with a strong focus on Europe.

For this project, teamtischer was responsible for executing the painting, plastering, electrical, flooring, plumbing, sprinkler, and HVAC trades. Special attention was paid to interface coordination with the center management and technical team—a particularly sensitive area in shopping malls, specifically regarding sprinklers, fire protection, air conditioning, and the emergency voice evacuation system (EVAK). teamtischer once again mastered the challenge, executing the work very rapidly after contract award—and with flying colors.

Rossmann, Visp

Rossmann Is on a Roll!

Rossmann's Swiss expansion is moving at a fast pace, keeping our team busy with multiple parallel projects. Due to the geographical location, our Rossmann special team from Western Switzerland stepped in for the Visp project. The challenge was demanding: building a store on a relatively small footprint with very limited technical data available. There were several highlights: a second, additional sprinkler system was installed in just four days. Furthermore, the parking garage ceiling had to be scanned meticulously to safely core-drill the drainage pipes. Creative solutions were also required for smoke extraction (RWA), insulation, and ventilation in the basement storage area. Thanks to everyone's tireless efforts, construction progressed so quickly that we finished almost two weeks ahead of schedule. Our warm thanks go to our client Rossmann, the partner companies involved, and – last but not least – the Imboden owner family for their excellent communication.

Moving again

Orthethic is the merger of two long-established specialists with a combined 125 years of experience. With 10 branches, it is now the leading brand for technical orthopedics in French-speaking Switzerland. This specialist in mobility, autonomy, and performance helps people—from children and professional athletes to seniors—move pain-free and independently. For the Neuchâtel branch, Sarah Tarrano from teamtischer Lausanne developed a comprehensive concept, including the attractive 3D visualizations shown here.

We supported the client in selecting materials, creating the color concept, and optimizing lighting and acoustics. The production and installation of the interior fittings were carried out in close cooperation with our production partner Dexpro.

Conclusion: To the client's complete satisfaction, the result perfectly reflects the Orthethic slogan, "Fraîcheur, force, couleur et engagement" (Freshness, Strength, Color, and Commitment).

Chocolate Enjoyment Perfectly Staged

At the new Läderach store in the Fashion Outlet Landquart, traditional chocolatier craftsmanship merges with a modern premium shopping experience. teamtischer accompanied the project from the very beginning of the concept phase and, as general contractor, took over the entire planning, budgeting, scheduling, tendering and awarding of all trades. In addition, the entire construction phase was supervised by our project and construction manager.

The project was completed within the regular schedule – including the climate system integrated into the ceiling. The latter posed a challenge due to long delivery times for the ceiling outlets, which caused a delay in the ceiling work. The final result is a true success: a precisely planned and executed build that perfectly showcases the brand's premium shopping experience.

Sephora, Zurich Bahnhofstrasse

When Director and Cast Save the Show

teamtischer's StoreScouting team sourced this location for the client! As a result, Zurich's Bahnhofstrasse – the seventh most expensive shopping street in the world – became the stage for teamtischer, this time simultaneously taking on the roles of director and actor. Given the ambitious two-month construction window, top-tier directing was crucial. The latter—in the person of teamtischer's project and construction manager—played a vital part in masterfully staging the piece, despite an unexpected dropped line by a guest actor.

What happened? Said guest actor – the building authority – completely broke character, ordering a two-week construction freeze due to a missing permit. For once, even our prompter, with all their excellent connections to the authorities, was powerless. So, we fell back on one of our six defined corporate values: "Partnership". The outstanding collaboration with our suppliers and subcontractors (cue the round of applause!) made it possible to hand over the store precisely on time after all. Curtain call!

We Continue to Grow...

Once again, teamtischer has expanded its team. The dedicated professionals behind our customer service, production, and back office are the foundation of teamtischer—and of your success. A stronger team ready to meet all your challenges!

Aurelian Maschitti (Team Lausanne)

From a Bachelor in Interior Architecture to certification as an art teacher, and from a humanitarian mission in Vietnam with Nouvelle Planète to serving as a Member of the Grand Council of the Canton of Valais, Aurelian brings a diverse background across professional and public life. Curious, creative, and highly organized, he manages projects end-to-end while keeping deadlines and budgets on track.

Melanie Müller-Hösli (Team Pfäffikon)

Melanie doesn't just draw – at least not in the conventional sense for a certified structural drafter with a diploma in Building Technology from HF South-Eastern Switzerland. As an artist and nature and travel enthusiast, she captivates her audience with delicate freehand work. And as a music teacher and brass band conductor, this creative designer also knows how to conduct even the most challenging teamtischer projects to a perfect finale.
